

Exhibit 14

Honorable Judge John A. Ross,

We have been truly blessed by God to have our son William Joseph in our lives.

He is one of the most loving, selfless, warm, caring and unassuming human beings that you will ever have the privilege and pleasure of meeting.

He has been our ray of sunshine and hope for over twenty-seven years.

A family member who is faithful to God, his family and friends. He is a person who always sees the best in everyone who he meets and interacts with always putting others before himself.

He views the world with great optimism and hope. Billy is shy, dislikes bratters and worries if his actions would harm something or someone. He believes that everyone he comes in contact with are truthful and those he interacts with has his best interest at heart. He is a person who has always learned from his mistakes, never holds a grudge and puts the past behind him.

Billy treats every single person he encounters in life with compassion, care and respect no matter if the person is a stranger on the street, a CEO of a Fortune Five hundred company, a world class athlete, President of a College or a Chancellor of a University.

Some would call his view of life and the world as being rather naïve.

This is who he is.

Since Billy returned home in 2016 he has managed and assist my husband and I in selling property that we owned. He is working for his fathers medical office assisting with various duties as well as preparing to transfer his fathers' patients to a colleague's practice. Billy has always enjoyed helping others through various community service projects in the Greater St. Louis, St. Louis Archdiocese and Greater Dayton Ohio area. He is always lending a hand to the elderly neighbors on the lane, our family members and friends never expecting anything in return. You can see the joy that it brings to his heart in helping others.

Our hope is that this information in our letter, will shed light on William, his personality character and the role he plays as a member of our family.

We are equally proud of both of our Adult children.

We are a close family, the four of us, and we will continue to support one another and have each other's back to the end of eternity.
